ABOUT ME

As a biostatistician at Habiganj Agricultural University, I am driven by deep desire to use my analytical skills to help vulnerable communities. With robust expertise in statistics I am passionate about finding innovative ways to use statistical knowledge to address challenges like climate change, food insecurity, poverty and sustainable livelihoods of agricultural communities. My goal is to deliver impactful research by statistical modelling and data analysis tools for the sustainable development to create a better future. As a dedicated educator and aspiring researcher, I'm committed to make vigorous impact on both academia and society.
