ABOUT ME

I am Md. Shamim Uddin, a Lecturer and Acting Chairman in the Department of Pathology and Parasitology at Habiganj Agricultural University. I specialize in veterinary helminthology, entomology, and protozoology. I am passionate about fostering student learning through creative, outcome-based teaching strategies and well-structured curricula. My research focuses on parasite infections, zoonoses, and their impact on animal health. With expertise in laboratory setup, syllabus design, and practical course instruction, I strive to advance education standards and contribute to international scientific research. I aspire to pursue advanced studies in molecular parasitology while promoting excellence in veterinary education

● ORGANISATIONAL SKILLS

Chief advisor

Md. Shamim Uddin serves as the main advisor for the Rajshahi University Animal Welfare Association (RUAWA), an organization dedicated to treating and managing the health of street animals around Rajshahi University. As a veterinary doctor and mentor, he provides professional guidance and oversight for the association's activities, ensuring high standards of care for the animals.

This organization not only plays a vital role in promoting animal welfare but also serves as a practical learning platform for students. Under his supervision, students gain hands-on experience in diagnosing, treating, and managing animal patients, enhancing their veterinary skills and fostering a sense of compassion and responsibility toward animals. Through its work, RUAWA contributes to the well-being of street animals and creates awareness about animal welfare within the community. Md. Shamim Uddin's involvement underscores his commitment to both education and animal care.
