ABOUT ME

I am a passionate and dedicated lecturer of Habiganj Agricultural University. I am committed to fostering a dynamic and engaging learning environment for my students. I actively contribute to research in horticulture, with an emphasis on crop improvement and sustainable production methods. I am particularly interested in exploring eco-friendly practices, such as organic farming and crop rotation, to reduce the environmental footprint of horticultural activities. Through my research, I aim to develop innovative solutions that benefit both agricultural communities and the environment, striving for a balance between productive farming and sustainability.
